

Dew drops from grass so green
When the rain is splashing down.
While hobbits sleep and dream,
And the flowers start to grow.

Quiet, iridescent sounds of the violin; the sun rays, gently lightening rounded hills; the wind, warm, southern, swaying the grass, blowing in the direction of dark as brandy Brandywine, which flows into the distant sea; a high oak tree on the top of the hill looks like the crown of this lands. It is Hobbiton - the land of the brave and little hobbits. Since my childhood I have been fascinated and interested in these unusual folk. Their life is very simple, but the extraordinary nature of the Hobbit lies behind this simplicity. What people can simultaneously be so "home" and "traveling"? Who can leave a comfortable house not for any holiday or earnings, but for a good purpose, in order to help friends and even for the sake of the whole world? These were the hobbits, who seemingly and not stand out among the other great nations of the Middle-Earth: the elves, men, dwarves. «But even the smallest person can change the course of the future» - Galadriel, The Lord of the Rings.

Why do I want to be neither an elf nor a dwarf, but a hobbit? I want to be among Halfling people, because "Hobbits are really amazing creatures: You can learn all there is to know about their ways in a month, and yet after a hundred years they can still surprise you." This is the brief but true description of these extraordinary people, given by Gandalf, a magician and a real friend of the hobbits. And I totally agree with him, because my desire is to bring some amazing things around me. I would like as hobbits to love nature so desperately, appreciate coziness and comfort. But at the same time to be so brave to leave my past life, my home place and go forward to meet adventures. After all, the world is not in books and maps, it's out there!

I am sad that modern life makes a person a prisoner of work, study, and he or she cannot live as a hobbit. It is clear, work, study is needed. This will help you take the place in the society help you to be successful. Live to work, work to live. But what about the holiday weekend? After all, you can spend a week, for example, with friends in the cinema and return to the common life. But in order to relax, you need to work. And again a vicious circle: to work in order to rest, to rest in order to work. Reading this, you probably are wondering what have here do hobbits? Namely, though this folk values its freedom, appreciates rest. But this does not mean that they lie all day in the sun and do nothing. No, we have such a busy schedule, it is because of our constant thoughts about the work we forget about the simple things, we forget to appreciate what surrounds us – our family, friends, nature. But hobbits, even tilling the soil, remember these things and appreciate them.

If I were a hobbit, I could plunge into this wonderful life, full of comfort and adventure. Certainly I would have made the last. Yes, people think that the hobbits do not like adventures. «An adventure? Now, I don't imagine anyone west of Bree would have much interest in adventures. Nasty, disturbing, uncomfortable things. Make you late for dinner, hm, mm » - Bilbo Baggins, The Hobbit, An Unexpected Journey. But still some of them changed their foundations.

And where would I go? Hmm, to the western mountains and visit the beautiful Grey Havens, or to repeat the feat of Bilbo Baggins and visit the Lonely Mountain? The whole world would be in front of me whether I am a hobbit. Yes, I would find his calling in travel. Besides, I would not worry about the boots worn while walking. After all, I'd have legs able to withstand sharp rocks and cold snow. How convenient and practical it is. What if a magician appeared before me and turned me into a hobbit in a real life? Well, I would become a great spy, because hobbits are incredibly secretive and noiseless. Hmm, maybe I would be just a good traders and entrepreneur. Hobbits have a lot of good and decent features that help them in life. Unfortunately we cannot make this folk a little bit taller.

After watching the trilogy "The Lord of the Rings" and released in 2002 then "The Hobbit", released in 2012, I had a dream. And now it is my life's goal: to overcome the 16,547 kilometers of land and sea, and turn up in one of the most amazing places on earth that is truly called "Earthly Middle-Earth" - New Zealand. «A land far away to the east, you will not find any other one in the world today» - Bilbo Baggins, The Hobbit, An Unexpected Journey. Virgin forests, mountains, beautiful seas and endless skies! All natural landscapes on only two islands: the quintessence of all the wonders of nature. Many people and New Zealanders call themselves Hobbits. And indeed, Kiwis (New Zealanders) are very similar to halflings and they are also hospitable. And this is associated for millions of people with native to us Middle-earth. But Middle-earth would not be so loved without hobbits - the folk, marking the beginning of the great feats and events, the folk – which little things, everyday affairs helping to restrain evil and bring light to others.

And so I want to be a hobbit to live in a place, surrounded by nature and enjoy its beauty ; always be with my family, knowing that it will always be close to me, and just be among the people , who by their actions are able to stop any darkness.

I want to be a hobbit.

And live a Hobbit's life.

I want to have a freedoms habit

And I want to be a good wife

I want to be adventourous,

I want to leave the Shire.

I want to be tempestuous

And dance around the fire.

I want to find the relics,

I want to claim the gold.

I don't want to be a wee thing or a hobbit till I get old.